Metropolitan Team Regains Lesley Cup

Eastern Golfers Lose the Famous Trophy by a Single Point.

ONCE MORE OUIMET DEFEATS TRAVERS

Amateur Champion's Margin 2 Up and 1 to Play—Kirkby Also Among Losers.

For the seventh time in ten years the Metropolitan Golf Association team won the Robert Lesley cup by defeating the Massachusetts State Golf Association forces 8 points to 7 in the decisive match on the links of the Baltusrol Golf Club yesterday.

Although successful collectively, the Metropolitan team was unable to thank its leaders, as both Jerome Travers and Oswald Kirkby were numbered among the losers both morning and afternoon.

The fly in the ointment from a local standpoint came in the defeat of Travers at the hands of Francis Ouimet, the Woodland golfer, who recently succeeded Travers as the national amateur champion. It was in the intercity series a year ago at Brookline that Ouimet scored his first victory over the Jerseyman.

The Bostonian won more decisively in the championship final at Ekwanok a short time ago. In their tilt yesterday Ouimet had to be content with a 2 and 1 margin.

Play began in the morning with the usual foursomes. Kirkby and Fred Herreshoff, leading off for the Metropolitan, were opposed to Ouimet and F. H. Hoyt. From the outset the local pair displayed a lack of steadiness, and before long they were 2 down. Later on the match became all square.

Ouimet was always long off the tee and when called upon to putt he rarely made a mistake. One down, Kirkby and Herreshoff proceeded to make a hash of the thirteenth and fourteenth holes, although the latter would have been halved had Kirkby not missed a putt of less than two feet.

The match ended on the seventeenth green. As he was walking toward the club house, Hoyt remarked that Francis and he represented the youngest and oldest players on the team. Although old enough to be the champion's father, Hoyt does not look it.

As was the case the day before, Travers and Gilman Tiffany proved an unfortunate combination. They were opposed to John Anderson and S. K. Sterne, and while the metropolitan golfers made frequent mistakes they hung on tenaciously enough to carry the contest to the home green.

The match was really won and lost at the long sixteenth hole, where Travers twice placed his partner in trouble. That squared the contest, and the Bostonians became 1 up by winning the seventeenth. A half at the home hole left Anderson and Sterne the winners.

The three other "Met" teams won their matches. Roy Webb and A. F. Kammer had a comfortable time at the expense of Percival Gilbert, the Massachusetts captain, and H. H. Wilder. Going to the eighth hole, Webb drove a ball a trifle wide and it lodged in the branches of a spruce tree some twenty feet from the ground.

"We managed to win that hole," said Wilder, "because they couldn't reach high enough to hit the ball."

When it came to the singles after luncheon there might just as well have been only one match, so far as the attitude of the gallery was concerned. Probably two thousand golfers followed when Ouimet and Travers left the first tee.

Travers, because of a recurrence of his old trouble with his wooden clubs, used his driving iron from nearly all the tees. The distance lost in consequence proved a handicap, especially when opposed to a man like Ouimet, who is a grand wooden club player.

The only really bad drive of which the champion was guilty was a pull out of bounds from the first tee, and the mistake there enabled Travers to win that hole in 4. On the second green Travers took 3 putts and lost, but he regained the lead when Ouimet failed on a short one at No. 3.

Jerry flubbed his approach to the fourth and overplayed the next green, mistakes that cost him both those holes and placed him 1 down. Ouimet's mashie approach to the sixth only went halfway, so that the match again became all square.

Travers saved himself by getting down a trying twelve-footer for a half in 5 at the seventh, but he paid the penalty when he used his driving iron from the next tee. The ball, not having quite the necessary carry, got so badly bunkered that he had trouble in getting out at all. Ouimet won that in 4 to 6, and as the next was halved in 4 the champion turned for home 1 up. He went out in 40 to the other's 42.

Ouimet lost the tenth by driving into the water guarding the green. They were all square again at that stage. The twelfth was halved in 4 after both men had overapproached to the trap, but Ouimet won the next two holes in 3s. His 3 at the fourteenth was the result of a 25-foot putt.

Although outdriven many yards from the next tee Travers made a grand second shot almost to the green, and got a half in 4. This hole is 450 yards long. That left Ouimet dormie 2.

Travers won the 520-yard sixteenth in a fine 4, and made a brave try to win the seventeenth in 3, but his 12-foot putt missed by a hair's breadth. A half there in 4 left Ouimet the winner by 2 up and 1 to play. The champion had a 4 for a 76.

WILLIAMS BEATS R. P. I.

Toolan the Star in a Decidedly One-Sided Contest.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Williamstown, Mass., Sept. 26.—In the opening football game of the season here to-day Williams sent R. P. I. down to defeat by a score of 37 to 0.

The visitors were outplayed in every department of the game and never came within striking distance of the Williams goal. Team work was in evidence everywhere, and the Purple veterans showed that they knew the game thoroughly.

Toolan displayed his wonderful ground gaining ability by scoring the first touchdown on two end runs for 25 and 13 yards, respectively. De Windt, the Purple quarterback, distinguished himself as a ground gainer, and made a goal from the field in the first period.

Despite the fact that only a few veterans were kept on the eleven in the second half, Williams started off with a rush, and in five plays L. Hubbell went over for a touchdown. Captain Payson often went through the opposing guards for substantial gains. To finish the battle Jones circled right end after receiving Gallagher's punt and scored on a 52-yard run.

SOME BALM FOR MISS CLAIRE CASSEL

Paired with Miss Wagner, Retains Metropolitan Doubles Title.

THRILLS AND CHILLS FOR BIG GALLERY

Mrs. Weaver and Mrs. Wood Beaten Only After Struggle for Lawn Tennis Honors.

By FRED HAWTHORNE.

Miss Claire Cassel and Miss Marie Wagner retained their titles as metropolitan lawn tennis champions yesterday, but it was only after one of the most gruelling struggles against Mrs. Spencer F. Weaver and Mrs. Rawson Wood that has ever been seen between women on Eastern courts. The champions won in three sets by a score of 5—7, 7—5, 9—7, a total of forty games, twelve of which went to deuce.

The match took place upon the "championship" court of the West Side Tenis Club, at Forest Hills, Long Island, and was followed by another match, the semi-final of the mixed doubles, which produced fully as many thrills for the large gallery. This found Mrs. Weaver and Dr. William Rosenbaum opposed to Miss Cassel and S. Howard Voshell, and the latter team won after the sets had gone to 6—4, 7—9, 7—5.

The final round in the mixed doubles, between Miss Cassel and her partner, and Mrs. Rawson Wood and C. M. Bull, jr., which was stopped after each had taken a set, will be played over again this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

A thirty-mile gale swept across the level stretch of courts when the women's doubles match began, and the three hundred spectators bundled up in overcoats and furs to brave the elements.

Mrs. Weaver and her partner began the service and soon established a lead of 4 to 1 on games. Mrs. Weaver proved a stonewall of defence against the hard driving of the champions, and from within two feet of the net smashed back her returns with such vigor as to badly fluster Miss Cassel and her partner, who switched their attack to Mrs. Wood.

By a supreme effort the champions brought the game to 5-all, but that was their last tally in this set, for Mrs. Weaver and her partner both closed up at the net and smothered everything that came their way, taking the last two games and the set at 7—5.

The struggle in the last two sets was more evenly fought. The champions realized the task that confronted them and played at the top of their game. Miss Cassel was the more effective, her raking backhand drives frequently shooting through the openings for the points. Mrs. Wood began to get into the game more effectively, her high lobs being marvels of accuracy and rarely landing more than inches from the baseline. Miss Wagner and her partner avoided Mrs. Weaver with religious care, but occasionally she leaped into the breach and generally ended the point right then and there with a whirlwind smash.

Team play told, however, and although the four women were evenly matched individually, the champions were too well schooled in each other's game and pulled out the last two sets and the match at 7—5, 9—7.

The semi-final in the mixed doubles was started about an hour later, and although Miss Cassel and Mrs. Weaver had just played forty hard games, they went into the rallies with as much speed and dash as the men. The gallery expected to see Miss Cassel and Voshell walk away with the match in hollow style, but as it was the winners were glad to pull out by a very slender margin of victory.

It was only lack of co-ordination in their team play that lost this match for Mrs. Weaver and Dr. Rosenbaum. Two or three times in the final set they were on the verge of victory, only to have Miss Cassel and her partner come through by careful playing.

Voshell has long been noted for his extremely hard service, but Mrs. Weaver faced it unflinchingly, and, standing three feet back of the baseline, returned it to her opponent's feet. At the net she fully held her own with the men, slashing the ball sharply across the court and refusing to be driven into back court.

Miss Cassel played her usual brilliant game, passing the opposing pair often by beautifully placed drives. Voshell's terrific smashing of lobs and Rosenbaum's cross-court shots were features of the match.

WEAVER IN FINAL ROUND

Will Play for Class C Lawn Tennis Title at Forest Hills.

Don L. Weaver fought his way into the final round of the Class C singles yesterday in the annual lawn tennis championship of the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills, Long Island, by defeating E. T. Crilley at 6—4, 4—6, 6—2.

In the only other club match of the day, R. B. Gatcomb and E. Henry defeated E. S. Moore and R. U. Gifford in the semi-final round of the Class B doubles.

Weaver and Crilley were evenly matched as to strokes, but Weaver proved the steadier, and many of his points were scored on his opponent's errors, particularly in the last set. The high wind seemed to bother Crilley, who could not control his lobs.

Gatcomb and Henry played well together as a team, and left fewer gaps in their court than their opponents. They were also less prone to make nets. Gifford thrilled the gallery several times by sensational shots, and Moore covered a surprising amount of territory, but the more experienced pair won by reason of their steadiness and superior court tactics.

NEITHER TEAM SCORES

St. Paul's and Boys' High Evenly Matched at Football.

The football teams of Boys' High School and St. Paul's School fought to a scoreless tie at Garden City yesterday afternoon. Boys' High School appeared to be the more powerful team, but it lacked the necessary drive to its attack to score a touchdown.

St. Paul's lost a glowing opportunity to score in the first period. Hammering their way to the 3-yard line, the Garden City backs plunged into the Boys' line four times, only to be hurled back in their tracks.

Auchterlonie, the left tackle for the Boys' High, was a host in himself. He tore gaping holes in the St. Paul line and four or five times smashed through to pile up plays in their inception. Sherman was a mate for Auchterlonie, and played a splendid game. Dietrick and Woodburn played well for St. Paul's.

The score follows:

St. Paul's (0).	Position.	Boys' High (0).
Johnson.....	L. E.....	Bernstein

Courtney Wasting No Time.

A call for varsity crew candidates by Charles E. Courtney, coach of the Cornell navy, sounded a few days before the university opened, forms something of a new precedent in rowing at Cornell.

As a usual thing, Courtney gives most of his time during the fall practice to candidates for the freshman crew, although a few varsity men also have rowed more or less during the fall months.

Olympic Committee Pays Tribute to J. E. Sullivan

Great Praise for Late Leader in Athletics Contained in Its Official Report.

The affection and regard in which the late James E. Sullivan was held by athletic leaders in general is shown by the eulogistic report just issued by Professor W. M. Sloane, Evert Jansen Wendell and Alfred J. Lill, who made up the committee representing the American Olympic committee to draw resolutions on Mr. Sullivan's death. The report follows:

"The American Olympic committee desires to place on record its sense of grateful obligation to James E. Sullivan, who, as secretary and administrator, was a high, inspiring force in its work, and whose loss is irreparable. Others may enter into his labors, but he will be remembered in the annals of international sport as a fearless reformer, an irresistible organizer and a mainspring of action.

"The American Olympic committee regards him as a man who was diligent and discerning in the conduct of its complicated affairs. Pleasant and genial in nature and manners, he was uncompromising when confronted with insinuating evil; and he purged American athletes of their insidious tendencies, thereby setting a standard of disinterested amateurism to which the whole world has rallied.

"His reputation as a high-minded sportsman grew first to be national, and will remain, as it was at his death, international. Faithful and loyal in character, his influence for good was based upon and flowed from the example he set from the very outset of his career.

"His commanding position was due to the implicit trust reposed in his nature and judgment by the great athletic sphere of two worlds in which he moved. An unpresuming American, he moved at ease among the great of the earth because all were conscious of his worth.

"The American Olympic committee recalls with high consideration the enormous moral force he exercised directly in New York and indirectly throughout the land. The coming men and women have led and will lead purer, higher lives because of the sports he organized for them; the playgrounds secured by his associates and himself; the work he did in giving some measure of outdoor life to child dwellers in congested districts, and the injection of joy and freedom into the existence of millions.

"Finally, the committee reminds itself of the obligations which such a life imposes upon those who remain behind. His mantle must fall on some successor, a man like-minded with him. It pledges itself to assist in maintaining his standards, in the fearless exposure of fraud and in clearly delimiting the danger line between noble sport and sordid emulation for gain.

"It likewise desires to see his methods continued and expanded: the exchange of opinion within the council room, free to the extent of combative earnestness if necessary; without, the calm resolution based on a convinced and clarified mind.

"One and all, the members of the American Olympic Committee had personal relations with Mr. Sullivan, more or less intimate. Collectively and personally we felt the charm of his personality as well as its power. We are glad for his leadership: the great mercantile connections with which he was associated lay close to the world of sport, and a weak, self-seeking man could easily have exhibited sordid traits; but his motives as a guide and guardian of athletic interests were the advancement of righteousness.

"One and all we, the American Olympic Committee, feel the stimulus of Mr. Sullivan's life and example, and hereby place on record our indebtedness. The highest earthly reward was his: he saw the fruits of his labor in abundance; he was gathered to his fathers, and men rise up to call his memory blessed."

News and Gossip of the Amateur Athletes

Senior Metropolitan Association Championships Likely To Be Close Between Irish and N. Y. A. C.

By ABEL R. KIVIAT.

The postponed annual senior Metropolitan Association championships will be held at Celtic Park, Long Island City, next Saturday. The small clubs championships, which bring together the New Yorks and the Irish, will follow on October 10 in Washington Park. The championships will be a great deal closer than at Baltimore, where the Irish athletes triumphed over the New York Athletic Club by 61 to 31 points. The Irish athletes should win by a margin of twelve points.

The Winged Fist athletes immediately after the senior metropolitan championships will be tendered a dinner by their club at the Chalet, in Long Island City. At the finish and after many speeches the athletes will elect a track captain for the 1914-'15 season.

It is strange that so many of the small Amateur Athletic Union clubs which have votes at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union have never had an entry in the championships and have never staged a set of games under the jurisdiction of the Amateur Athletic Union. Why should they be permitted to have a vote?

The first big athletic meet of the indoor season will be the annual games of the Irish-American Athletic Club at Madison Square Garden on Saturday evening, November 28. The following list of handicap events will be contested, and later a few special events will be announced:

Sixty yards, three-quarter-mile run, running broad jump, seventy yards, high hurdles, three-mile run, fourteen-pound shot, 300 yards, two-mile walk and fifty-six-pound weight for height.

There is a rumor in athletic circles that Bernie Wefers's days of coaching the New York Athletic Club's athletes are numbered. Rumor also has it that Harry L. Hillman, jr., coach of the Dartmouth boys, is slated for the position. Hillman in his day was the best point scorer the Mercury Foot organization had in both open and championship meetings, also the most popular athlete in the metropolitan district. His many friends would like to see Harry get the position, provided that the New Yorks make a change.

There are many candidates for the 13th Regiment Athletic Association vacancy, following Lawson Robertson's refusal to sign up. Among the possibilities are Jim Rosenberger, former champion spr
