Seven lean years for international need in this country have passed ws, but to-day, after much weary ng and enforced contentment local and inter-cify play, the t-hungry enthusiasts, most a could not go to Philadelphia for any of the series there, are having their appeities thoroughly satisfied. The Incogniti of England, gailant Incogniti of England, gallant army dien and university players, who one and all did their bit in the Great War, are finally among us. They form the centre of attraction at Livingston, Staten Island, where are lo-sated the pretty grounds of the Staten Island Cricket and Tennis Club, the getting well set toried scene of many former international matches that have drawn here teams are as follows:

CRIMSON CANDIDATES TACKLING THE DUMMY.

On Soldiers Field at Cambridge on Saturday afternoon, the Harvard varsity football eleven will open its season with a rather stiff- contest, taking the Holy Cross team from Worcester. The latter is credited with a rather light line-especially in comparison with the Crimson forwards-but expects to put an extremely fast backfield into action for the opener. There is considerable optimism at Cambridge, despite the loss of star players, and no worry is felt over the outcome. The line vacancies will be filled by men ineligible last year and while there will be no Eddie Casey in the backfield there will be a quartet that will match speed against the Worcester eleven and weight and experience in addition.
